Itiviti receives 2019 TradingTech Insight Europe Award for Tbricks

Analytics strength of Tbricks highlighted as Itiviti accepts 2019 TradingTech Insight Europe Award.

London, UK, February 28, 2019 – Itiviti, the leading global provider of multi-asset trading technology and financial infrastructure, today announced that it has been named a winner of the acclaimed TradingTech Insight (TTI) Europe Awards for 2019. At the awards ceremony held in London yesterday, Itiviti's Tbricks was recognized as Best Trading Analytics Platform.

Presented by A-Team, the TTI Europe Awards have been designed to acknowledge excellence in trading solutions and services for capital markets. The TTI Awards focus on vendors providing exceptional trading infrastructure, trading technology, and data solutions within financial markets.

"I want to congratulate Itiviti on the achievement of being named a winner of our 2019 TTI Europe Awards," said Andrew Delaney, President and Chief Content Officer, A-Team Group. "The votes of our trading technology community members confirm Itiviti as one of their preferred providers, and this award reflects Itiviti's standing as a trading technology innovator by enabling customers to employ analytics as an effective vehicle for pushing the boundaries in electronic trading."

All award nominees were initially reviewed and considered by Trading Tech Editors and the TradingTech Insight Advisory Board. Based on their analysis, shortlists were drawn up for each awards category, and the voting process commenced among the TradingTech Insight community.

"We take great pride in this recognition, as the TTI community certainly includes some of our most demanding and analytically sophisticated users," said Jonas Hansbo, Chief Technology Officer, Itiviti. "The TTI Europe Award adds a significant, independent approval for our Tbricks platform, and for the expertise we provide to back it up."

Tbricks is an innovative trading platform that empowers trading desks with game-changing technology. It combines a flexible, scalable and fast core platform with comprehensive, off-the-shelf solutions for a variety of business demands. Tbricks' flexible and modular approach to trading technology; 'buy and build', solves the 'buy vs build' debate.

With its powerful mechanisms for delivering analytics, Tbricks facilitates better informed trading decisions and lets customers differentiate by adding market intelligence while ensuring regulatory compliance and actively use risk to enhance trading.

Tbricks supports trading analytics through its Calculation Engine, taking full advantage of modern multi-core hardware architectures. It offers a fully server-based API for various sorts of analytics, such as pricing of financial instruments in real-time or pre- and post-trade analytics.
